Along with Deep Sea Treasure, Dog Tag & Panic Museum, ICE is pleased to announce two additional games for 2010 each of which is slated to make their debut in late January at the EAG Expo in London.

Robin Hood:

Travel back to medieval times and test your archery skills in this new video redemption game. Featuring a durable laminated plywood cabinet, with a crystal clear 32" horizontally mounted LCD screen, the animated medieval theme makes this game suitable for all ages. Players will test their skills in this multi-round archery game, firing the realistic-looking crossbow at various moving targets to win tickets.

Once the player has completed the first round, they have the option to risk half of their tickets and show their sharpened skills by entering the Super Bonus Round to win the ticket jackpot.

Rok N' Bloks

Experience the newest 3D interactive video redemption game using Real Time Physics. Rok n' Bloks uses next generation technology that allows the player to use an interactive hand controller to move the base side to side, while allowing players to also tilt the base to catch and balance falling Bloks.

The bright 42" LCD monitor and vibrant LED lights draw in players to test their skills at hitting the various win zones, which is accomplished by stacking and balancing the falling Bloks. Each win zone rewards the player with tickets and, if the player is skilled enough, they can win the bonus by stacking their Bloks all the way to the Bonus win zone. But be careful, dropping 3 Bloks will end the game.
